

I bought XM for the ability to hear what I want when I want and from where I want. If this includes should include getting the weather and traffic. If the BIG players in the broadcast world feel threatened then maybe they should work on providing us an option that is in the fair competition arena.

Then I will spend my money on what I choose. But for right now I am a XM listener and will be till they or you come up with a better product at a reasonable price.

Don't be scared be innovative and create something new.
Really it's just that easy.

Look at XM they did.
